

HISTORY OF ART CONFERENCE FUNDING APPLICATION

The Department of History of Art and Visual Studies will help to support one conference participation each year for our graduate students. We require that you also seek funding from the Graduate School and any other area program or Cornell entity that offers support. The amount we provide will not exceed $400 and in most cases will be less. For their early conference presentations, we recommend that graduate students limit their participation to grad student conferences. Participation at conferences of major national and international professional organizations should be for presentation of dissertation material that is well along. For international conferences, priority is given to those at an advanced stage of their dissertation.
